TIME TO POWER UP

Removing the original head

You'll notice that your superhero action figure already has a head. This won't do. Just run it under a very hot tap for a few minutes and it should become soft enough to pop off (apologies, comic book fans). You're now ready to add your personalised head.

As you can see, the personalised head is made from a rigid plastic that won't snap on and off like your action figure's original one. Not to worry. You can easily fix it in place: either permanently with blue and yellow epoxy putty, or temporarily with white tack. We've included both in the box.

Adding your personalised head - temporarily

To bond your personalised head temporarily to the action figure body, pack a small amount of white tack around the top of the action figure's neck. Then place your personalised head on top. If you've used enough white tack you should be able to move and adjust the head without it falling off.

To bond your personalised head permanently to the action figure body, knead and fold together the blue and yellow putty strip until it's a uniform green colour.

Adding your personalised head - permanently

Pack a small amount of the putty around the top of the action figure's neck (you may need to wet your fingers as it's sticky stuff). Then position your personalised head on top. Wipe off any excess putty with a damp cloth. And that's it! In 90 minutes your personalised head should be bonded permanently to the action figure body.

Alternatively, use a few well-placed dabs of superglue to stick your personalised head to the action figures shoulders. Or do both of the above. That's what we'd do.

Your Personalised Superhero Action Figure should now be complete!

Please take care to avoid banging, wetting or scratching the head while you're showing it off. And try not to leave it for long periods in direct sunlight. After all, IT'S NOT A TOY – please treat it with all the respect an extremely buff version of you deserves.
